

Lockdown Letters

We want to catch living history.

Tell us how you got through lockdown.

Do this by writing us a letter to:

Lockdown Letters, Community team, Kettle's Yard, Castle Street, Cambridge, CB3 0AQ

How have you got through lockdown days?

Quite literally – what has your routine been like?

We invite you to write us a letter telling us your lockdown routine. A one page letter. It could take the form of notes. It could include times.

These letters will be shown to poet Hannah Jane Walker who will create a legacy poem using parts of them. The poem will live as part of the archive at Cambridge University Library.

In these unreal times, the things that seem not of note, often are.

Help us catch living memory.

Your letter could include:

- Your daily lockdown routine
- Small things you became grateful for
- Little moments that you found, things you noticed

What will we do with your letter?

- We will give them to Cambridge University Library to archive living history.
- We will also allow poet Hannah Jane Walker to read them and use them to create a poem, as a legacy document.

If you would like to receive your own copy of Hannah Jane Walker's legacy poem in return, please include your name and postal address on a SEPARATE piece of paper, which will not be kept by Kettle's Yard or archived by the University of Cambridge.

All Lockdown Letters should be received by Kettle's Yard by Monday 17 August 2020.
